

THINK AND BE SAFE
DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

1. What are some job tasks at this facility that could have tragic consequences if you didn't think before doing them?

2. Do you always consult the written procedures for a job when required? Why or why not?

3. Have you ever taken a risk at work even though you knew the consequences may not be worth the reward? Would you take the same risk now?

4. While performing your job, have you ever thought about the example you were setting for other employees? What can you do to set a good example for others?

5. Have you ever taken any risks because you felt that injuries only happen to "other people" and couldn't happen to you? What are some of the job tasks at this facility where someone could be injured if he or she felt this way?

6. Have you every ignored a warning sign of a potential accident or injury? What do you feel you should do when you experience a near miss, or as Martin calls it, a near hit?
